Foreword

With highest esteem and great privilege, we, the seniors, present our annual, the 1954 TAR-BO-RAH, which holds between its covers some of our most cherished memories and a record of our activities for all to see.

Our greatest desires are that our yearbook will long linger in each and every memory, and that you will be as proud of our annual as we are.

WANTED

A man who devotes his thoughts and energy to improving and advancing the school program.

A man whose very life is devoted to serving others through education.

A man who takes a personal interest in everyone and who is a friend to all.

Found: Such a man, Mr. B. L. Price.

CLASS POEM

THE LONG TRAIL

As I carefully look down the trail of memories
The dearly beloved ones of our high school days, I quickly try to seize,
I sit down to examine them, to see what lingering secrets
they behold
To relive precious moments more treasured than gold.

The trail was very narrow, our freshman year;
There were great things in store for us which we'd see and hear,
With our open minds and our hearts sincere-
Thus we began our freshman year.

With knowledge gained and eager for more
To our sophomore year we quickly tore,
The narrow trail widened to receive each one of our class
That year, to greater heights, we were destined to pass.

Into our junior year we did smoothly glide
We now were covering the trail with an easy stride,
We traveled onward, our hearts filled with pride
As we vowed to stick together side by side.

Our senior year, the most awaited one,
Now was laid out before us, a year of work and fun,
The trail is no more; it has ceased its long run,
We have fought many battles, and many victories we have won.

Yes, the long trail has ended, but I am well content
As I approvingly recall the many hours well spent,
The future lies before us, we know not what is ahead
But we travel on with confidence, banishing all fear and dread.

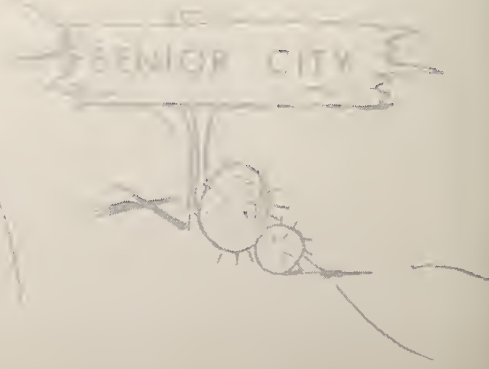
After a long and dusty trip along Elementary Road, we finally pulled in at Freshmanboro. It took us quite some time to get used to the new, exciting life of freshmen, but we still managed to enjoy our ride and profit from it too. We were lead by Nelson Morris, as president; Pat Parker, vice-president; and Dot Owens as secretary and treasurer. Incidentally we had the largest group of "mavericks" in quite a few years in our class.

We arrived in Junior City eager to begin a year in which we hoped to forge ahead and make the seniors proud and happy of our school. This year turned out to be perhaps our most enjoyable one with James Taylor, president; David Elmore, vice-president; Millicent Alderman, secretary and treasurer, as our "foreman." The highlight of this year was the Junior-Senior which was the best "shingdig" ever. Our theme was "April In Paris." The Eiffel Tower and Arch of Triumph completed the decorations for our big social. Another of our proud accomplishments was the junior play -"Beanes for Breakfast." During the course of this year we managed to have many "gatherins." We all agreed that it was a great year, and we looked toward Senior City with anticipation.

We soon found ourselves at the city-limits of Sophomoreville. As sophomores we finally came to realize that this "stage trip" could be fun if we worked hard and made "strong box loads" of money. We all had a great time putting over the Hallowe'en Carnival. We accomplished a great deal with James Taylor as our president; David Elmore as vice-president; and Millicent Alderman as secretary and treasurer.

Finally we reached our destination determined to make this our very best year. For a good start, we elected "Bucky" Fountain as our president, Tommie Walters as our vice-president, Doris Lassiter as secretary, and Mary Elizabeth Sexton as our treasurer. The greatest of many surprises was our new principal, Mr. Price, and his new ideas which he brought with him. The senior boys enjoyed his new Family Life class. Our grademothers - Mrs. Hornthal, Mrs. Mayo, Mrs. Owen, and Mrs. Robeson - helped in making our senior supper a financial success. Then came the sad part - we all began to think more seriously of our good "ole stagecoach ride," and to wish that we were not seniors. Our senior play, "The Little Dog Laughed," was produced in record time by the cast. Another of our busy but yet most wonderful classes was Journalism with Mrs. Irby as the "boss" of the "outfit." The "Tar-Bo-Rah," our annual, made us stop for quite a while on our journey. Maybe if we ever ride along this stage line again, we'll finish our story to you. Here's hoping you enjoy the rest of our annual, "pardeners!"



LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

State of North Carolina
County of Edgecombe
City of Tarboro
Tarboro High School

We, the Seniors of '54,
Will soon be gone forever more,
Before we end our studies and lessons,
We wish to distribute our worldly Possessions.

Article I

To the faculty members we leave as follows:

To Mr. Price:
Our fellow classmates,
Who will be,
As equally proud
Of him, as we.

To Miss White:
A class that will study,
Both day and night,
To answer the prayers
Of Miss Eleanor White.

To Mr. Toler:
A driving class,
Who day by day,
Won't turn his hair,
From brown to gray.

To Miss Bunch:
A disciplined glee club
Who will sing
In the fall
As well as spring.

To Mrs. Irby:
A new Senior Class,
Of good girls and boys,
Who will do more work,
And make less noise.

To Mrs. Blackburn:
A chemistry class
As well behaved as we,
Who instead of doing
other things
Will study chemistry.

Article II

To the Freshmen:
They have successfully completed,
Their first year of four,
And we hope for them
They will live through three more.

To the Sophomores:
Finish your remaining two years
With a happy smile
Take our advice
And make them worth while.

To the Juniors:
With three down
And but one to go
We leave this thought
"Make a good show."

Article III

To certain students:

Says Tommie Walters
So full of glee,
"I will my beautiful legs
To "Mole" Rountree."

"My ability to giggle"
Said Joyce Brown with a smile,
"Is hearily willed
To Betty Carlisle."

John Owen's football ability
Is happily willed,
To "Little George" Whitehurst
May he use it with skill.

Said David Elmore,
"I leave my dignified way"
"To Harold Painter
To use the rest of his days."

Carl Ainsley said
In a very loud noise,
"I leave my talkative ways to all Junior boys!"

"To Hilda Tedder"
Says Mattie Brady with poise,
"I willingly bequeath
My way with the boys."

"I will all my curls"
Said Judy Acree with a jolt,
"To that cute little gal
Whose name is Carole Holt."

"I leave my weight"
Said Russell Messer in a whiz,
"To Bobby Proctor
May he add it to his."

"Eddie B. Fowlkes,"
We heard "Woody" Sawyer tell,
"Can certainly have My ability to yell."

"To Helen Marks"
Said Mary Frances McCracken in a daze,
"I solemnly will
My quiet ways."

All our worldly possessions,
We have gladly willed
So our bequeathing duties are
Now all stilled,
May the Senior Class of '54
Linger in your memories forevermore.

CLASS PROPHECY

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN

On the night of June 18, 2000, as I was sitting in my modern space home in Venusville, I began thinking of my old classmates, and I decided to return to earth and visit them in Future City. After packing my space bag and donning my new plaid space traveling suit, I was prepared for my journey. I caught the spacecoach at the station, and was finally on my way.

As the spacecoach pulled into Future City, my destination, I decided first to look up some of my former classmates.

The first person I ran into was none other than Sonny Burnette, now a policeman in Future City.

Next I passed the Mars Elementary School, and I saw Polly Whitehurst, a third grade teacher; Mary Eleanor Tew, a first grade teacher; Doris Jenkins and Selma Herring, teaching home economics; Mollie Ann Tedder, teaching her pupils to be laboratory technicians as she was. A few of the children they were teaching were those of housewives: the former Peggy O'Neal, Rosa Lee Savage, Barbara Newsome, Betty Lou Dew, and Doris Downs.

I glanced across the street, and there was a sign on the great opera house, in big lights, "Phyllis Mayo, Vocalist; and Russell Messer, Concert Pianist." I later discovered that Bobby O'Neal, and J.C. Moore, retired millionaires, were joint owners of the opera house.

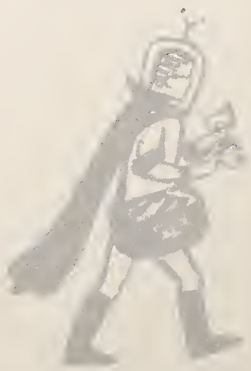
Then as I went zooming down the street, Carl Ainsley, the number one playboy of the town, saw me and invited me to a big space dance that night. While we were talking, one of my dearest friends, Pat Martin, a happy housewife, came along; and after a warm greeting and hurried discussion of old times, she invited me to stay at her home while I was visiting in Future City.

After we got home, I began making preparations for the "Star and Moon Dance." Pat suggested that I go to Sexton and Price's Beauty Salon, operated by no other than Mary Elizabeth and Peggy, to have my hair set.

On my way down town I passed the newly built telephone office, and I was informed that Mattie Brady, Mary Louise Johnson, and Frances McCracken were big wheels, and even more surprising---Joyce Brown was secretary to the biggest wheel! I thought that since I was on my vacation, I would go in and have a chat for old times sake with them. They told me that Judy Acree was an outstanding social worker in Future City, and that Alvin Dawson was a mechanic at Rusty Joe's Garage. Woody Sawyer is Future City's most outstanding C. P. A.

I could have talked with them for hours about "those good ole days when," but I was already late for my appointment at the Beauty Salon. I did have to look my best for I might be as lucky at the big get together as I had been so far in renewing old acquaintances.

After I had my hair set, I had a little free time; therefore I thought I would visit one of the law offices were Vaun Russell was employed as a private secretary. I visited the Hornthal Law Firm: that name seemed to ring a bell---and sure enough as I entered the door, there sat Tony with his feet propped on the desk.



The affair was really "out of this world." During the gay evening, I bumped into Tommy West, who was now working for Uncle Sam in the Navy, and was home on a furlough. He told me that Dot Owens was a secretary in the Navy. He also said that some of our other classmates were working for Uncle Sam; they were Justa Webb, David Williams, and Walter Wagner, soldiers; and Curtis Andrews, Air Force, was happily flying in the wild blue yonder. I met Billy Livesay and Dean Fields who were joint-partners in the Venus Fur Company. At the end of the dance my feet were killing me, so I had to call it a day.

The next morning, being Sunday, I went to the Little Church Around the Corner, to see Richard Harrell, the minister.

Since I work as a secretary in the Venusville General Hospital, I decided to visit the hospital in Future City, The Robeson Hospital, to see how it was equipped. I arrived at the hospital and was looking around when I ran into Micki Page, a registered nurse, hurrying down the hall. We talked a few minutes, and during the conversation I learned that Millie Alderman, Jean White, and Sara Brewer were all registered nurses at Rex Hospital. The biggest news she had to tell me was that the hospital had been named after the head doctor, Sig Robeson. She directed me to his office, after talking a while; he told me that Anne Flye, Ann Ange, and Edith Smith were all nurses on his staff. He also told me that John Owen and Jake Smith were handling the dental work for him.

The days breezed by, and it was time for me to head home from my vacation. As I passed the printing shop, I stopped in to buy a newspaper, so I would have something to read on the long trip home. The name of the paper, "The Future City Herald," had as its cartoonist, Tommie Walters; and James Taylor as its artist. The front headlines stated, "Jimmy Avent, Nuclear Engineer, Discovers New Carbon-Dioxide Bomb." Imagine, one of my classmates making the headlines! Bucky Fountain, now a radio engineer at Station WTHS, is also the number one radio announcer of the year.

Having packed and caught the spacecoach, I noticed a gigantic building being constructed just outside the city limits. Inquiring about it, I learned that it was designed by architect, Donald Anderson, and was being built by the Elmore Construction Company, headed by our own David Elmore.

For entertainment, I tuned into the Station WTHS, and heard Bucky Fountain giving a play by play description of the FUTURE CITY MOONPIES versus the SATURN DEVILS, in the ballgame of the year. The game had been going on for ten minutes, but thanks to Willie Strawbridge, the homerun king, the MOONPIES were leading 500-1.

That night after I was at home, I sat down and began thinking. So many changes had taken place in these 2000 years, what would happen to the universe in the next 2000 years?

THE CLASS OF '54
WISHES TO EXPRESS
ITS THANKS AND APPRECIATION
TO
THE MERCHANTS OF TARBORO
FOR MAKING OUR ANNUAL POSSIBLE

Columbus, the Janitor

Sadie, the Maid

Ned, the Janitor

CONCLUSION

We, of the annual staff have worked very hard
And as we finish, we discover we're "tard,"
Our efforts were many, our mistakes were plenty,
From seeing it so much, our eyes have grown squinty,
So we close up shop for a much needed rest
Knowing that our annual is the very best.
